

Music Showcase Students Judged In International Competition

Music Showcase students participated in the annual International Piano Guild in May 2022. Students submit auditions to a judge who scores their performances. The International Piano Guild holds yearly auditions around the world with music professionals grading students on accuracy, continuity, phrasing, pedaling, dynamics, rhythm, tempo, tone, interpretation, style, and technique. The audition, open for students of all levels, is a yearly event. Students have to memorize and play scales and songs...sometimes as many as 10 of each. The Guild's purpose is to encourage growth and enjoyment of the piano. Auditioning students receive the prestige of becoming members of the Guild for a year and report cards. Students can also receive community service credit through the public school system and academic accreditation on college applications and resumes.
